Honda Brio or Brio Amaze is the facelift of Honda Brio, the hatchback version, which made its debut in 2012. The tested variant, which is an A-segment sedan scored 12.88 points in the Adult Occupant Protection (AOP) category, which places it in the 4-Star range. Due to the absence of ISOFIX and top tether for its child restraint method, the Brio scored 2-Star rating for the Child Occupant Protection (COP) category at 45% compliance. These ratings also applied to its hatchback version in which Honda has equipped both versions with double airbag and Seatbelt Reminder System (SBR) for driver only as standard. Anti-lock Braking System (ABS) is available as standard for its higher variant and Electronic Stability Control (ESC) is absent from any variant across the ASEAN market.
